WELCOME TO SURYOJASVI TIMES :

"True freedom is Gratitude in action, Learning without limits, and Promises we keep."

Dear Readers,

Independence is not just a gift from 1947 — it's how we live our values every day. At Suryojasvi, our Codes — Gratitude, Learning, Motivation, Empathy, Sharing, and Keeping Promises — are our way of honoring that freedom.

This edition celebrates that spirit: the PLUM Program and BEL certification remind us that learning is freedom; client appreciation and WOW Moments show gratitude and empathy in action; KBS 2025 proves how motivation and sharing bring us together; and Rohit Kapoor's 13-year journey reflects the power of keeping promises.

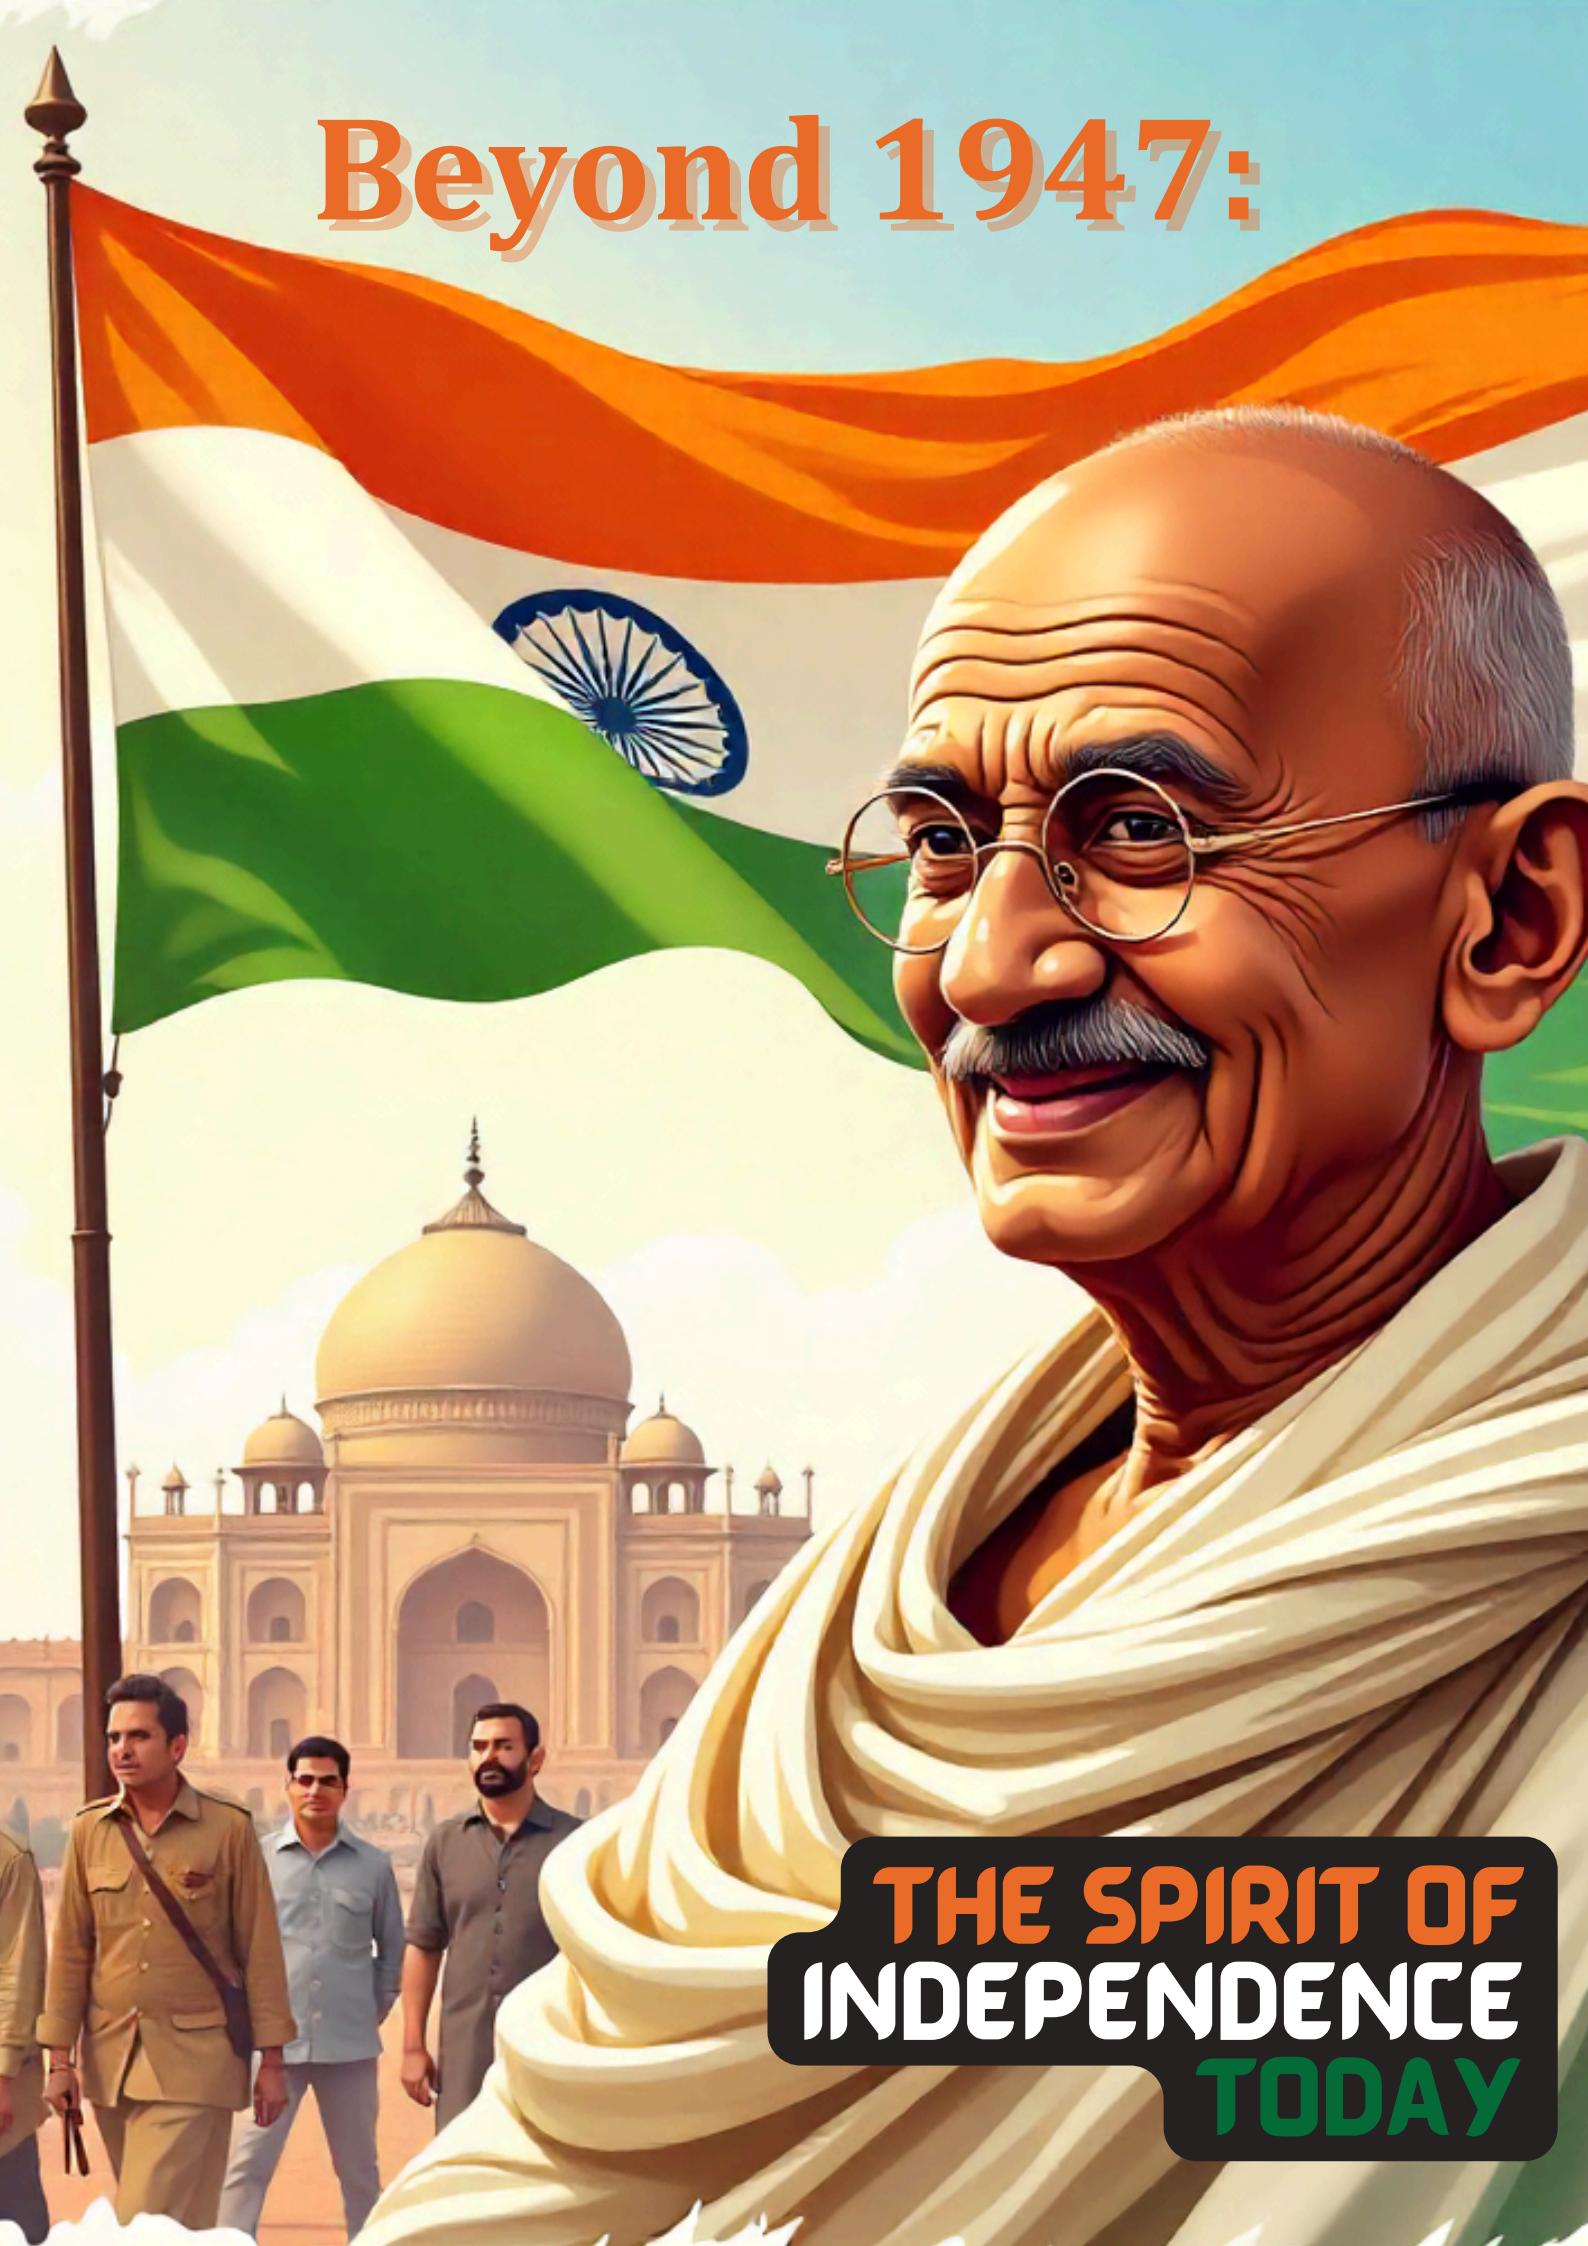

True independence shines when we live these codes with courage and consistency — shaping not just our work, but also the culture and future we are building together.

With pride and gratitude,
Nidhi Manan

Beyond 1947:

THE SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE

BEYOND 1947: THE SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE TODAY

“Freedom is not just a memory of 1947, it’s a responsibility we renew with every generation.”

For us at Suryojasvi, independence is courage—the courage to speak with honesty, to create with originality, and to lead with integrity. It is the quiet strength to stand by our values and the bold energy to shape our future with confidence.

Freedom also means empowerment. When trust flows between people, initiative thrives. When individuals take ownership, teams grow stronger. Independence at work is the space to think differently, the encouragement to act decisively, and the confidence to know that every contribution carries weight.

True independence is harmony—unique voices uniting, diverse strengths blending, and progress built together.

This Independence Month, we honor the liberty we inherit and the responsibility we uphold. At Suryojasvi, we cherish the freedom to dream and the power to build—side by side, with hearts uplifted and futures wide open.

Independence is a flame that continues to glow—steady, bright, and unyielding. It was lit in 1947 when India embraced freedom, and it lives on in every dream we dare to pursue and every responsibility we choose to carry.

Before that dawn, life was marked by silence and restraint. Generations lived under restrictions that curbed voice, opportunity, and dignity. The nation's spirit yearned for expression, yet found itself bound. In fields and factories, in schools and streets, the weight of foreign rule pressed heavily on everyday lives.

It was in this landscape of struggle that leaders rose with extraordinary courage. Countless patriots filled prisons, faced injustice, and laid down their lives so the country could breathe in freedom. Their march was not only against an empire but towards a vision—of a people owning their destiny.

Today, that vision breathes through us. We speak without fear, we learn without barriers, and we aspire without limits. The freedom to choose our paths, to innovate, to question, and to build belongs to us. The liberty once fought for on the streets now lives in our classrooms, our workplaces, our homes, and in the very confidence with which we step into the future.

“True freedom is not locked in history, it thrives in how we choose to live, lead, and inspire today”

MASTERING LIFE FROM THE INSIDE OUT: A NEW JOURNEY WITH THE PLUM PROGRAM

Find your purpose, master your life. It's all in the PLUM. 🌟

Mr. Khosla personally coaches and mentors the cohort in three core areas:

- Personal Mastery: Cultivating the body, breath, and mind to navigate life's highs and lows with balance.
- Relationship Success: Building stronger, more meaningful connections.
- Professional Growth & Fulfillment: Finding deeper purpose and joy in one's career

Beyond the weekly live sessions, participants gain access to a dedicated group for ongoing support and collaboration. For those who need it, one-on-one email coaching is also available to address personal challenges, ensuring a truly personalized experience.

The PLUM program is a testament to Mr. Khosla's lifelong commitment to giving and contributing more. It's an invitation to embark on a journey towards a life filled with purpose, balance, and joy—guided by a mentor who has walked the path himself. The first cohort has already begun this transformative experience, and we eagerly await the stories of growth and mastery that will emerge from this truly exceptional program.

In a world filled with endless courses and workshops, a truly unique and transformative initiative has taken root: the PLUM (Personal & Professional Life Understanding & Mastery) Program. This one-of-a-kind program, personally curated and led by our esteemed CMD, Mr. Chetan Khosla, offers a rare opportunity to learn from five decades of lived experience.

Launched in August, the PLUM program is more than just a course; it's a practice-based journey designed to help participants master life from the inside out. Drawing on spiritual wisdom, global leadership frameworks, and ancient wellness practices, Mr. Khosla distills timeless truths acquired through his deep observations and intentional living.

What Makes PLUM Different?

This is not a theoretical exercise. With a powerful 80% practice and 20% theory model, the program focuses on tangible skill-building and real-life application from the very first day. Participants aren't just listening to lectures; they are actively engaging in a journey of self-discovery and growth.

“ PLUM: The ultimate life guide, curated by a lifetime of experience. 🌟

LEARNING BECOMES POWERFUL WHEN WE'RE OPEN TO FEEDBACK -

Here's how Sachin Manan is embracing this spirit during the KAM program.

"I'm currently part of the KAM (Key Account Management) Training program, with Manoj from ODEX and Chetan Sir as our master trainers.

After the very first session, I realized that if I truly wanted to get the best out of this training, I needed to go back to the basics — the way I used to work when I first started my career in Sales & Account Management.

For me, that meant taking one simple but powerful step: after every prospect call, partnership discussion, demo, proposal meeting, or any sales-related conversation with an external party, I would share the recording with my mentors for feedback and suggestions.

I believe in this process deeply — because it's exactly how I learned whatever I know today about sales and account management.

For many colleagues and friends, this can feel daunting. The first thought is often, "I'll be judged," followed by a flood of what-ifs. But the truth is, this is where real learning happens.

By doing this, I discovered two key areas I need to improve:

- Getting better at identifying the PAIN / GAIN areas of prospects.
- Improving my research and preparation before prospect calls.

We all have blind spots, and that's why we need coaches.

Sachin Tendulkar — arguably the greatest batsman ever — had a coach. This Sachin, too, needs a coach to sharpen his axe and uncover blind spots.

I'm sharing this with all Suryojasvis, wishing you happy learning and encouraging you to find your own way to keep improving."

When Trust Becomes a Journey: 13 Years of Togetherness

As I sit back and reflect, I realize that my professional journey with WyzMindz has now completed 13 years. Thirteen years of laughter and late nights, of challenges and celebrations, of setbacks that shaped me and victories that lifted us all. It has been much more than just a career — it has been a family, a classroom, and a stage where I grew as a professional and as a person.

Where It All Began

My career in Workforce Management (WFM) started back in 2007 with Aegis. I still remember my interview vividly. My manager-to-be, Mr. Sachin Mannan, asked me one simple question: “Do you know how to use Pivot?” I gave a confident “Yes,” quickly demonstrated, and got selected. Later, he told me something I carry to this day: it wasn’t the Pivot that got me the job, it was the confidence with which I presented myself. That one lesson — that sometimes it’s the little things like confidence, presence, and attitude that open doors — stayed with me throughout my career.

After Aegis, I joined Concentrix (earlier IBM Daksh), where I spent about a year and a half as a Team Leader in WFM. Those days gave me a deeper understanding of global operations and helped sharpen my skills.

Taking the Leap — Joining WyzMindz

On 7th August 2012, I made a decision that changed my life. I left the comfort and prestige of a large, established brand to join a young company — WyzMindz. It wasn't an easy choice, but my trust and respect for Mr. Sachin Mannan gave me the courage to take this leap of faith.

Our first office was a small setup in Sector 7, Delhi. We were just a handful of people, mostly ex-colleagues from Aegis, starting with very little but dreaming very big. Our initial focus was WFM services, and our very first client was Beam Telecom in Hyderabad. I can still recall the excitement we felt handling scheduling and forecasting for them. Slowly, more opportunities came, like DIGI Call.

The Visionaries Behind WyzMindz

What made WyzMindz unique from the start was the vision of its founders:

- Mr. Sachin Mannan – WFM
- Mr. Chetan Khosla – Cross-domain expertise
- Mr. Thomas Mathew – WFM
- Mr. Mahidhar Shastri – Quality

Together, they built not just a company but a dream, and we were fortunate to be part of it.

The Birth of TransMon

As WyzMindz grew, so did our ambitions. Under Mr. Mahidhar Shastri's leadership, the idea of creating our own product took root. That's how TransMon was born. It wasn't easy. The early days were full of challenges, but every hiccup was also an opportunity to improve.

Our first client was DIGI Call, and then came a big breakthrough — SpiceJet signed us up under a capex model. That deal, driven by Mr. Mannan, gave us confidence that we were building something powerful.

Milestones That Shaped Us

From there, our journey picked up pace. Clients like Flipkart, Telenor, and OYO joined hands with us. With OYO, we didn't just provide a product; we also managed their quality audits. Slowly, our focus shifted more towards TransMon — because we believed the product had the power to shape the future.

One of the defining chapters was Airtel. Competing with established players wasn't easy, but Mr. Mannan's conviction carried us through. What started small scaled up into an engagement with 90 auditors! In 2019, I had the privilege of leading TransMon for Airtel — one of my proudest responsibilities.

Then came Startek (South Africa), brought in by Mr. Chetan Khosla. Soon after, the pandemic struck, shaking the whole world. Clients were impacted, offices shut down, and uncertainty loomed. But thanks to our leadership, we quickly transitioned to remote operations and kept going. We lost some clients, like Airtel, but retained many — Flipkart, OYO — and added exciting new ones like PhonePe, Cred, Wakefit, Lenskart, Ebixcash, LTFS, and others.

During this time, Mr. Chetan Khosla emphasized something critical: never stop learning. That focus on upskilling helped us stay ready for the future.

Breaking New Ground

One of our proudest milestones was entering the banking sector with Axis Bank. Getting TransMon accepted by an institution where data security is of the highest importance was no small feat. It proved that our product was strong, reliable, and ready for bigger challenges.

Then came a life-changing opportunity — presenting TransMon to a U.S.-based company. Competing in such a mature market was daunting. We prepared rigorously, refined our demos, and focused on showing not just features, but how TransMon could truly add value. Guided by Mr. Mannan's wisdom, we closed the deal.

And then came the unforgettable assignment in Kingston, Jamaica. To be chosen for the implementation there was a dream come true. The work was intense, the experience was enriching, and the memories — priceless. A short stay in London afterward was the cherry on top. The way Mr. Mannan mentored and supported us throughout the trip is something I'll always treasure.

Reflections

Looking back at this 13-year journey, my heart is full. We started in a modest office in Sector 7, and today we stand tall with global clients and proud milestones.

What I've learned along the way is simple yet profound:

- Challenges always carry hidden opportunities.
- With the right leadership and teamwork, no obstacle is too big.
- Hard work, honesty, and commitment will never let you down.

WyzMindz is more than a workplace for me. It's been my family, my school, and my launchpad. I am deeply grateful to be part of this incredible story and excited to keep contributing with all my heart in the years to come.

Here's to WyzMindz. Here's to trust, resilience, and togetherness. Here's to many more milestones.

BADGE OF HONOR

WOW Moments – Celebrating the Spirit of Suryojasvi!

Every month, on a spirited Saturday in the middle of the month, the Suryojasvi Group comes together to celebrate something truly special — our WOW Festival.

This isn't just an event. It's a celebration of how we show up for one another, how we grow, and how we go the extra mile. From quiet contributions to game-changing innovations, WOW is our way of shining a spotlight on those moments that make us proud to be Suryojasvis.

So what earns a WOW Moment?

We honor those who:

- Helped someone when it mattered most
- Solved a problem that improved a process or experience
- Learned something new and shared it with curiosity and passion
- Taught someone a skill that empowered them
- Created something new that added value

These moments may seem simple, but together, they build the culture we cherish — one of brilliance, collaboration, and heart.

Why We Celebrate

In the pace of everyday work, it can be easy to overlook the efforts that truly shape who we are — the small acts of leadership, the consistent displays of initiative, the willingness to support and uplift others. The WOW Festival gives us the opportunity to pause and recognize these contributions. It's about more than appreciation; it's about reinforcing the values we live by — teamwork, learning, innovation, and empathy.

By celebrating WOW Moments, we nurture a culture where individuals feel seen, valued, and motivated.

Recognition Through the WOW Badge of Honor

As a token of appreciation, the Organisation Development team presents a "WOW Badge of Honor" to the individuals or teams whose stories inspired us all. This badge is more than recognition — it's a reminder of how every contribution, no matter how big or small, creates ripples across our collective journey.

Here's to our WOW-makers — keep spreading the spark.

The waves crashed loudly against the shores of Ullal, as if echoing the determination of their queen. At the heart of this coastal kingdom stood Rani Abbakka Chowta, a woman whose courage became a shield for her people.

Born into the Chowta dynasty, Abbakka was no ordinary princess. From her childhood, she was trained to ride swift horses, wield sharp swords, and command the art of archery. She grew up not in the comforts of a palace alone, but in the spirit of leadership, discipline, and fearlessness. When the time came, she rose to rule Ullal with wisdom and strength.

The 16th century was an age of turbulence. Far away from her land, ships flying the flag of Portugal had crossed the seas and reached India's coast. Their mission was simple—control the waters, take over trade, and bend every kingdom to their will. Many rulers gave in to their pressure, but not Abbakka.

When the Portuguese demanded tribute, she refused. When they tried to break her spirit, she stood taller. With the vast ocean as her ally, Abbakka turned Ullal into a fortress of resistance. She gathered her people—farmers, fishermen, warriors—and built a navy that struck fear into the mighty Portuguese fleets.

Again and again, the enemy attacked—and again and again, Abbakka drove them back. She fought not for glory, but for her people's right to live free and proud. Betrayal struck from within her court, yet even surrounded and outnumbered, she fought till her last breath, leaving behind a legacy of fearless defiance.

Remembered as “Abhaya Rani,” the queen who lived and died for freedom, her story still echoes through coastal Karnataka. Centuries before the tricolor rose, Abbakka proved that no empire can silence a heart that beats for independence.

This Independence Month, we honor Ullal's fearless guardian—Rani Abbakka!
